QUISLING PLANT HIT

95 Prisoners Taken; RAF Goes Into Action Over Germany, Bombing Duesseldorf.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Eight enemy ships totaling 15,650 tons, oil tanks, ammunitions stores and a Quisling-owned industrial plant were destroyed during a British raid on the small island of Vaagso 100 miles north of Bergen, Norway, it was announced officially today.

The raid was carried out Saturday by the mysterious commando force of the British army, aided by light forces of the home fleet and by the RAF.

The story of the daring thrust against Germany's war machine was told in a communique issued jointly by the admiralty, the war office and the air ministry.

The entire German garrison on an island involved in the attack was captured or killed, the communique said.

"An enemy tank was put out of action and an oil tank and ammunition stores were destroyed," the communique said.

"A wireless station and a certain industrial plant owned by a Quisling and known to be operating for the Germans were destroyed."

An officer of the combined operations headquarters said the German casualties totaled 120 men and 95 prisoners were taken.

A number of Norwegian civilians returned with the commandos also.

The commandos suffered "some casualties" but the raid was called a complete success.

"Although on a small scale, this raid was a good example of the combined operation in which the royal navy, army and royal air force each played an equally important and interdependent part," the combined communique declared.

Meanwhile, the RAF sent its bombers over Germany proper.

BRIDGE OPEN

2-Way Traffic Permitted Over Wooden North Main Span.

The county's new $6,000 wooden bridge over Touby's run on North Main street was open to two-way traffic today, approximately six weeks after construction of it was started.

County road officials said the structure will be completed this week, probably by New Year day. Only the sidewalk along the east side of the bridge has not been completed, and workmen were building it today.

The bridge, which has been a headache for county commissioners for more than two years, was built by county road workers. The commissioners and County Engineer Howard Sword assumed responsibility for the job after failing to reach an agreement with the state highway department over the cost of a cement bridge.

The county first agreed to pay half the cost of a $22,000 bridge, but backed down when the state upped its estimate to approximately $40,000.

2 Women Seriously Hurt In Mishaps Here; State Toll 7

Two women, injured in weekend traffic mishaps in the Mansfield area, were in a critical condition today in General hospital as the state counted its traffic fatalities at seven, one of the lowest week-end tolls of the year.

At least five other persons suffered injuries in three accidents in the city area. The driver of one of the cars involved in a crash in which three were injured was found guilty in municipal court today of driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was fined $100 and costs and lost his driving rights for a year.

In a serious condition at General hospital were Mrs. Glenn Schisler, 36, of 236 East Third street, and Mrs. William C. Sears, 31, Akron. Both suffered skull fractures. Mrs. Schisler also received fractures of her lower and upper jaws.

Mrs. Schisler was injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on U. S. route 30 three miles east of Mansfield. Two other persons were injured in the crash.

Mrs. Sears suffered injuries Sunday afternoon in a mishap on U. S. Route 42 about 14 miles south of Mansfield. Her husband, William C. Sears, 32, received face lacerations and shock. He was driving the car. A passenger in the second car, Jesse Rynearson, of Edison, suffered cuts and bruis-

Henderson Tells Retailers Sugar Cost Stabilized.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Recalling that hoarding and profiteering in sugar reached "proportions of a national scandal" during the last World war, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, today placed responsibility for maintaining stable sugar prices solely on retailers.

In an open letter to all sugar distributors, Henderson pointed out that the government has imposed maximum prices on sugar at wholesale levels which makes it possible for retailers to acquire supplies at pre-war prices.

Under the circumstances, the letter said, "we urge all retailers to see to it that the American housewife can buy sugar at prices that reflect this stability at the wholesale level."

Trials of the suspects will begin Friday.

NAVY RECRUITS JAM TWO BUSES

Shout 'Remember Pearl Harbor' as They Leave City For Cleveland.

Waving to parents and friends, and shouting "Remember Pearl Harbor" as they boarded two special buses, 58 naval recruits from Mansfield and vicinity left this morning for Cleveland, to be sent from there to one of three Naval training stations located at Great Lakes, Ill., Newport, R. I., and Hampton Roads, Va.

The group of men sent today was the largest ever sent from the Mansfield recruiting station, according to Recruiting Officer W. G. Cox. "We've never sent that many in any three months before," he said. "That makes a record of 81 recruits for the month. We formerly sent only about 12 a month until the attack on Pearl Harbor."

John J. Cicolani, 17, of 411 Cline avenue, was one of 26 men from Mansfield who left this morning, and the second member of his family to enlist in the Navy. His brother George, 19, located at Pearl Harbor the last time he was heard from, enlisted last year.

Former Letter Carrier Henry Cunning told Postmaster H. E. Homberger as he was leaving the postoffice for the last time today, "I'll mail you a Jap."

Gunmen Get $440 In Robbery Today At Down Town Hotel

Two burglars walked out of the Court hotel, 115 North Main street, early today with $440 stolen from the hotel safe after menacing Charles Wolfe, 233 West Fourth street, day clerk, with their revolvers.

Police, called to the hotel by Wolfe, said that the burglars had overlooked $500 in the safe. A partial description of the men and their automobile was broadcast by police radio in an effort to apprehend them.

Wolfe told police that he had relieved John Sparks of 118½ North Mulberry street, night clerk, at 6 a. m. and that Sparks had gone home at 6:15. About ten minutes after the night clerk had left, Wolfe said he saw a dark-colored sedan containing three men pass the front of the hotel moving very slowly.

A few minutes later, two men entered the hotel. One approached Wolfe and made inquiries about a room while the other stood near the entrance to the desk room in which Wolfe was standing.

Wolfe said that when he got a key and started out to show the first man a room, the second man "stuck a gun in my ribs" and told him "to get back in there and open that safe."

When Wolfe told them he couldn't open the safe, he said the burglar with the gun pressed against him told him to "stop being funny." After he had opened the safe, one of the burglars

Draft, Priorities Snag Farm Production, Bromfield Says

Louis Bromfield, author and operator of a 700-acre farm 12 miles from Mansfield, charged today in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Claude A. Wickard in Washington that efforts to put farm production on a war-time basis had been seriously handicapped by military conscription and priorities regulations.

"At the same time that the farmer is being asked to double production," Bromfield wrote Secretary Wickard, "the government proposes to take away from him, by increased conscription demands, what labor remains.

"More than that, there are constant reports that the mechanized farm, which usually means a farm on a high production level, will have to give up rubbered-tired equipment and go without new machinery and even spare parts," Bromfield wrote.

(The office of price administration has ruled that rubber tires and tubes on farm tractors and equipment may be replaced, but not truck or automobile tires.)

Bromfield said the type of labor supplied through the department of agriculture labor department bureaus is "practically useless."

Hit-Skipper Picks Up Wrong License Tag, Fined In Court

A hit-skip driver, who grabbed the wrong license plate while leaving the scene of an accident, was arrested today by police who claimed the driver had sold his damaged car in an attempt to escape arrest. He was fined after pleading guilty in municipal court today.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said that the driver of an auto which crashed into the rear of another owned by Paul Nollert of 185 North Mulberry street, on Dec. 20, was taken into custody and that investigations are being made to arrest several other hit-skip drivers who sped away from auto collisions in the past two weeks.

Boals said that an automobile operated by Ray O'Leary, Lexington R. D. 2, had crashed into the rear of Nollert's car, damaging the rear and knocking loose Nollert's rear license plate and breaking of O'Leary's front license plate.

When police arrived on the scene, they found Nollert's car and a license plate marked WC184, which had been issued to O'Leary. They checked the MacArthur Consolidates Forces North Of Manila, Reports Casualties Heavy On Both Sides In Fighting; Manila Fortress Bombed.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The navy reported today that United States submarines had sunk two more enemy ships in the Far East and that a United States destroyer had suffered slight damage and minor casualties from Japanese planes.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — General Douglas MacArthur has shortened his Philippine defense lines north of Manila, the war department reported in a communique today which said that the Japanese invaders had been heavily reinforced.

MacArthur has consolidated the majority of his troops in Pampanga province, north of Manila, and considerably south of the Lingayen gulf coast line where the original major invasion thrust started.

Reporting that American and Philippine troops were in high spirits and offering stubborn resistance against heavy odds, MacArthur said that "losses have been heavy on both sides."

The text of the war department's communique, No. 23, outlining the military situation as of 9:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) today: (about 1.20).

"1. Philippine theater:

"The commanding general, United States army forces in the Far East, has consolidated the majority of his troops in Pampagna province and shortened his lines.

"In the last few days the enemy has been heavily reinforced by several infantry divisions, tank regiments and horse cavalry. Japanese units are composed of veteran soldiers with modern equipment.

"American and Philippine troops, despite constant fighting against heavy odds, are in high spirits and are offering stubborn resistance. Losses have been heavy on both sides.

"Enemy air activity continues heavy, with repeated bombing of Manila in violation of the declaration of an open city.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

'Suicide Squads' Halt Jap Rush

MANILA — (AP) — "Suicide squads" of young Filipino soldiers were credited today with halting the first rush of the Japanese advance in northern Luzon and helping to drive back the invaders in at least one sector. But U. S. army headquarters at the same time warned of a fresh threat in the south, where they said the Japanese were landing reinforcements.

Army advices otherwise were meager, simply reporting "no material change in the north or south." An officer returned from the northern front said the Japanese appeared to be falling back from Tayug, 100 miles north of Manila and 20 miles inland from Lingayen gulf, and a Manila bulletin reported back from the same sector told of the work of the "suicide squads."

(Bert Silen, NBC reporter in Manila, said eyewitnesses returning from the front reported the Japanese "in full retreat" in the province of Pangasisnan, just south of Lingayen gulf, with four towns recaptured out of the six they had occupied. In the south, Silen said, the defenders' lines "are in excellent position...expected to hold the enemy in check.")

The young Filipinos, he said,

ACCORD: Eden, Stalin Reach Agreement On German Defeat

(By Associated Press)

Foreign Minister Anthony Eden has reached an agreement in Moscow with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin looking toward the "utter defeat of Hitlerite Germany," it was announced in London and Moscow.

The Moscow talks, it was disclosed dipped into post-war reorganization. They went on simultaneously with those in Washington between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. And the four men were said to have kept constantly in touch with each other.

On the Russian war front the Red army troops were reported to have shattered a division of German fledglings of 17 to 18 years of age on the Kalinin front; ripped through the German lines south of Moscow to Likhvin, 50 miles west of Tula, and Belev, 50 miles southeast of Kaluga, menacing the German retreat to Smolensk; and captured Novosil, 100 miles south of Tula in a drive on Orel, 40 miles to the west.

Reports reached Moscow of the recapture by the Russians of more than 450 towns and villages.

HEROES: 400 Marines Hold Off Japs 14 Days At Wake Island

(By United Press)

HONOLULU—The navy described today how 400 United States Marines on Wake island, with four planes and a few guns, stood off for 14 days a Japanese fleet, more than 200 Japanese planes and a Japanese invasion army.

On the last day, Dec. 22, Japanese warships of all types, their guns blazing, closed in, their troop transports close behind, and Japanese planes swarmed over the island.

The two marine planes remaining went up, the marine gunners and infantrymen took their posts, and the garrison radioed:

"Issue in doubt."

Both marine planes were shot down after bringing down several Japanese planes. The ground guns grew hot as the marines fired but the issue was no longer in doubt. The last radio came, that the Japanese had landed troops from several ships and that the transports were starting to move in. Nothing has been heard since but the jubilant Japanese announcements of their victory.

Their victory over a handful of men cost them a cruiser, three destroyers and a submarine disabled or sunk, a trans-

They are far from being united and what the Japs have done there must have had interior help.

Consider the audacious Japanese air flight over the Pacific coast. At San Francisco it split, one half went out to sea but the other half went back south! The former was apparently based on a carrier, but how about the latter?

There are parts of lower California as inaccessible as the Sahara. Japanese fisherman have been coasting those waters for years. What goes on do n there? It's time for us to find out.

These things raise anew the standing danger to the canal. Presumably we are doing all we can do but if past events speak truth, it isn't enough.

There is much talk about our now forcing the main Japanese fleet to fight ours and the British in open water. Why should they do that? If their fleet is gone, they are gone. Their game is to play hide-and-seek with the grand fleet and rely on ingenuity for the present anyway.

Their problem offsetting this is Singapore. Hongkong has fallen. If, as seems likely, the Philippines can't remain as a serious threat, they must dispose of Singapore. If the allies can concentrate enough air-power there, it would be folly for the Japs to risk their fleet and probably as great a folly to attempt a concentration of manpower.

Most of the signs point to our decision not to scatter our forces no matter how pathetic the cases may become as with MacArthur in the Philippines. That takes nerve and national resolution and understanding, but it does seem to me that we are acquiring both and that we are learning to fight a modern gangster war with gangsters just as our FBI had to learn every gangster trick in the book of rules before it became effective.

STAY-OFF JOB, UNION ORDERS BUS STRIKERS

Cleveland Walkout Continues as Labor Leaders Say Company 'Reneged.'

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Striking drivers of the Central Greyhound bus system were ordered today by officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach operators, an A. F. of L. union, to continue their walkout against the company.

In ordering the strike to continue, the union charged the company had "reneged" on its promise to accept a settlement formula proposed by Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the United States conciliation service. The strike started Dec. 3. Steelman proposed that the issues be submitted to arbitration and that the men go back to work without loss of seniority. The company insisted that it would arbitrate only if the union first submitted a list of points to be decided by arbitration.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Along with striking bus drivers in the east, drivers for the Central Greyhound system today continued their walkout in the Cleveland area as attorneys for the company and representatives of the AFL-Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach operators prepared to meet in Washington with Dr. John Steelman, director of the U. S. conciliation service.

No company buses on commuter or long distance lines were operating. The strike, affecting 1,500 drivers, terminal workers and maintenance workers, started Dec. 3 in Cleveland when the union ordered 75 maintenance employes at the company's garage to leave their jobs because cleaning women were not being paid 60 cents an hour.

The strike spread to drivers and terminal employes Dec. 23 when the entire service from Chicago to New York and Boston was interrupted.

GASOLINE USE DROP EXPECTED

Government Predicts Cut of 35 Per Cent From Lack of Tires For Autos.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A 35 per cent reduction in the nation's 1942 civilian gasoline consumption was considered likely today by government petroleum experts because of new restrictions making it impossible for the ordinary motorist to obtain new tires or inner tubes for his car.

The effect of these regulations, these officials believed, would be to make motorists use their cars less to conserve their tires for necessary motoring and emergencies. Gasoline consumption accordingly would be sharply reduced.

The same quarters considered that the rubber conservation program might delay the need of direct consumer rationing of motor fuel, in event the war effort ties up the extensive transportation facilities used to distribute some 7,200,000,000 gallons of gasoline annually throughout the country.

At the direction of Secretary of Interior Ickes, the petroleum coordinator, a consumer gasoline rationing system has been prepared for use if an emergency demands such action. Its details have not been revealed.

Petroleum supply in the United States, which possesses great resources of oil, is principally a matter of transportation.

Conductor Missing As Train Reaches Columbus Station

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A Big Four passenger tram arrived here early today without its conductor, railroad authorities reported, and police and special detectives began searching for him between Middletown and Cincinnati.

The conductor, identified as W. P. Faber of Cleveland, had charge of train No. 28 running north from Cincinnati. Spokesmen for the Big Four said Faber's personal effects were found in a unused coach as the train neared Carlisle junction.

It was stopped and a search made for the man, but no trace of him could be found.

Railroad detectives who met the train here said they could shed no light on the case.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The fact that production rate dipped only four per cent during the Christmas holiday was an indication that every effort was being made by the steel industry to meet its war obligations, the magazine Steel said today.

Cancellation of orders by consumers whose production has been curtailed continues and removes much tonnage from mill books, leaving the way clear for increased war effort, the publication stated.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE PUT IN BOMB-PROOF SHELTER

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution today are stored side by side with the British Magna Carta in a secret bomb-proof repository where they will remain for the duration of the war.

Removal of these documents from public display in the library of congress was but the first of a series of evacuations which will see the nation's cultural, historical and scientific possessions of intrinsic value going "underground" for protection against the possibility of bombing. The library is taking no other measures to safeguard its file at this time.

Officials said many prized pieces of art still will be on display for tourists visiting the national gallery of art and other buildings in which they are housed.

Great Britain originally moved its valuable paintings and other works of art out of museums, but then reversed the procedure to "boost" the morale of the citizenry and sought solace from the horrors of bombing by gazing at the works of the masters.

The Magna Carta was shipped to New York from London for the New York World's fair and later was transferred to the library of congress for safe-keeping pending the cessation of the European war.

It was disclosed that the Bill of Rights was removed to the lowest vault of the national archives building shortly after the recent observation of the 150th anniversary of the adoption of those amendments.

Unknown to his parents, he filled his pockets with 1940 Christmas greeting cards and started out to sell them at a penny apiece. For several days Charles Kenny has been hanging around Scout headquarters to get the latest returns in the Boy Scout primary elections for city offices because he was a candidate for mayor on the Nationalist ticket, but to no avail. He was told that the winners in the primaries would be announced in yesterday's paper, which they were, with David Weimer's name heading the list. Kenny took his defeat like a good Scout, but was overjoyed to later learn that through a mistake in reading the returns, Weimer had not won the race after all, but had placed second, making him the winner. Thus, Kenny is now officially the Nationalist candidate for mayor.

2 PRISONERS RECAPTURED DURING FLIGHT

Offer No Resistance After Fleeing From Toledo; Girl Held as Suspect.

(By International News Service)

TOLEDO — Four prisoners escaped from the Lucas county jail today by sawing their way through bars of a four-man cell and an outer corridor window. A few hours later two of the men were apprehended in Dundee, Mich., and returned to the Toledo jail by sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Charles L. Hennessy said he was holding an 18-year-old girl on suspicion that she smuggled the saws to the men while visiting one of them.

The men are Henry Bloszczak, 24, and Leo Glivinski, 23, both of Detroit; Peter Carter, 23, of San Pedro, Cal., and Herbert Eckhart of Rossford.

Bloszczak and Glivinski, arrested several days ago on charges of stealing an automobile and turned over to jail authorities by the U. S. marshal, were captured without a struggle in Dundee by village Marshal L. T. Harris. They were not armed.

Sheriff Hennesy said Glivinski attempted to commit suiside last week by slashing his wrists.

Carter, charged with violation of the Dyer stolen car act, and Eckhart, facing robbery charges, were still at large. Hennessy said Bloszczak and Glivinski told him they got to Dundee, about 24 miles from Toledo, by hitch-hiking. The quartet split up when they left the jail.

The men sawed through the bars of the cell they were occupying on the third floor, broke a screen lock on a corridor window, sawed through a bar on the window and lowered themselves to freedom, Hennessy said.

The saws were found on the floor by deputies making rounds of the cell blocks this morning.

Says Peanut Has Gained Status as Important Food

AUBURN, Ala. — (INS) — The tiny peanut, usually the mark of a baseball game, parade or a trip to the beach, is fast rising to an accepted position as one of our most important foods, according to Miss Lavada Curtis, of the Alabama Agricultural department.

Within the past year the people of the United States have become peanut-conscious in their diets, and penuts are now being featured as side dishes on menus in some restaurants, and in the regular "between meals" snacks in many homes, she said.

Miss Curtis, who is the Alabama Agricultural department's extension specialist in food preservation, declared the sudden importance of peanuts is the result of recent extensive surveys which showed millions of Americans are deficient in Vitamin B—one of the healthful qualities possessed by the peanut.

British Admit Japanese Advance

SINGAPORE—(AP)—The British acknowledged today that Japanese troops had swept south of Ipoh, Malay, tin mining city and communications center 290 miles north of Singapore, and announced the fall of Kuching, capital of Sarawak on the island of Borneo.

A headquarters communique said the British on the Perak front in Malaya are "in close contact with the enemy south of Ipoh" but gave no further information.

The Tokyo radio broadcast an army announcement saying Ipoh had been in Japanese hands since about noon Sunday.

Elsewhere in Malaya the situation remained unchanged, it was said.

Dutch Hit Transport, Bag 12 Jap Planes

BATAVIA, N. E. I.—(AP)—American-built bombers of the NEI army air force have scored a direct hit on a large Japanese transport and shot down "probably" 12 Japanese planes in an attack on Miri, Sarawak, a communique released by Aneta, NEI news agency, reported today.

The fact that the communique made no reference to yesterday's landing of Japanese parachute troops near Medan, on the island of Sumatra, led observers here to believe the invaders had been unable to make much headway in their first attempt to win a foothold on Indies territory.

Today's communique did, however, raise the toll of a Japanese air attack on the Medan airport. "At present," it said, "casualties are reported to amount to 30 dead and 70 injured. Further particulars are awaited." First accounts had fixed the casualty list at 20 killed and 40 wounded.

Australia Seen As Pacific War Base

CANBERRA, Australia—(UP)—Australia may be used as a Pacific operational base for United States, British empire and Netherland forces, it was learned today as the war cabinet prepared for a conference Wednesday to consider a "most important" communication from Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Churchill's message, sent from Washington, will have a "vital bearing" on the future conduct of the Pacific war, it was said. It was sent shortly after Australian Premier John Curtin's press conference statement Saturday that in the present emergency Australia looks to America.

Far-ranging planes were said authoritatively to have hit targets in northwest Germany in overnight raids.

(The Germans declared the British landing party was driven back to its ships in short and violent engagements Saturday and added that one destroyer of the fleeing British formation was sunk.

(The Germans also said a cruiser and another destroyer were damaged by Nazi aircraft and 10 British bombers were shot down.

(Berlin acknowledged that the German patrol boat Foehn sank under the fire of the cruiser and several destroyers.)

On the continental front, the air ministry said last night that a "powerful force" of bombers raided Duesseldorf, a principal manufacturing city of the Ruhr valley, and left many fires burning.

(Berlin claimed nine British bombers were shot down in the raid, the same number as over Norway.)

The RAF also attacked the Soesterberg airdrome in the Netherlands loosing bombs on the runways just as Nazi aircraft landed. Other bombers attacked the naval base of Brest, where two German battleships are sheltered, and the harbor works at Boulogne..

The British acknowledged the loss of only seven bombers in these operations.

Bromfield cited the plight of neighbors, one of whom had to give up poultry raising because his son, who tended the chickens, was in the army. He said another neighbor will produce 20 to 50 per cent less next year because his son was drafted and "is tinkering with trucks in an army camp, a job which some garage mechanic might much better be doing."

Register Rings For Red Cross

Everytime the cash register jingled at two Mansfield dining establishments today the war emergency fund now being raised by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross increased. Both the Parkway restaurant, 18 Park avenue west, and Ritz night club, 161 North Main street, turned over total receipts to the fund deducting nothing for food and service. Red Cross volunteer workers were stationed round-the-clock at the Parkway to handle receipts at the request of the management. Restaurant, Night Club Give Receipts Today To Red Cross

With the receipts from two Mansfield dining establishments expected to sharply boost the war emergency fund which today stood at $16,200, Richland county chapter of the Red Cross launched an intensified drive to obtain the $13,800 needed to meet the $30,000 quota fixed by national headquarters.

The Parkway restaurant, 18 Park avenue west, turned over its total receipts to the fund beginning at 5 a. m. today with the management, James Georgopulos and George Margaritus, withdrawing from the cash register's post in favor of volunteer Red Cross workers who will handle all receipts until 5 a. m. Tuesday.

Ritz night club operators, James Villella and Anthony Mollica, opened their tills to the war fund at 5:30 a. m. today and will give the entire proceeds from their establishment up until 2:30 a. m Tuesday when the night club closes. It is located at 161 North Main street.

No expenses in connection with the operation of either the Parkway or Ritz are to be deducted from the receipts as the management of each place is paying for all food and service.

Parkway waitresses donated their tips to the cause and a change box was placed near the cash register for the convenience of Parkway patrons wishing to give the change from their restaurant checks to the emergency fund.

Women of the Red Cross volunteer assistants' class recently trained at Red Cross headquarters for clerical work and other services took up their station in pairs at the Parkway cash register beginning at 5 a. m.

Mrs. Donald Black and Mrs. Frank H. Maxwell worked the early three and one-half hour shift and were relieved at 8:30 a. m. by Mrs. Norman Kann and Mrs. F. F. Baker. Red Cross uniforms of white and navy blue lent a dramatic accent to their appearances.

Volunteers scheduled for service the remainder of the day were: Mrs. L. M. Mumford, Mrs. L. A. Them, 11 a. m. to 2 p. m.; Mrs. William M. Layton, Mrs. C. O. Russell, 2 to 5 p. m.; Mrs. F. C. port badly damaged, and many planes destroyed and uncounted men killed or wounded.

The first attack was made on Wake island at almost the moment Pearl Harbor here was attacked. Wake, however, is across the international dateline in the far Pacific, and it was Monday instead of Sunday morning there.

Five days before the end, practically every defense work on the island had been damaged or destroyed.

In its statement of the fight the navy said:

"Official reports indicate that probably no military force in American history, not even the defenders of the Alamo, ever fought against greater odds or with greater effect in view of those odds."

As many as 40 planes at a time, some of them great four-motored flying boats, attacked the island.

Eight marine planes were destroyed in the sneak attack of Dec. 8. Another was lost soon afterward. Two more were lost Dec. 14. But one was patched up during the night. At no time did the marines have more than four planes in action, and these had to be patched in darkness. During the closing days there were two planes.

Twenty-five men were killed and many wounded in the first raid.

For three days the Japanese contented themselves with aerial attack. On the fourth day, they attacked with a fleet, and the marine guns sank a light cruiser and a destroyer and shot down six planes.

The Japanese were using land-based as well as aircraft carrier planes, the four-motored bombers, two-motored bombers and swarms of fighters. It was believed the land planes might have been based on the Japanese mandated islands southward.

The road to Utopia is longer and rougher than it was a year ago.

Americanism: Getting all stirred up by report that a mad dog is running loose and paying little attention to a drunken driver.

Japan's Barbaric Warfare

PEOPLE of the United States, and other civilized countries, view with horror the acts of oriental barbarism committed by Japan in bombing undefended Manila after that city had been demilitarized and declared an "open city"—which, under rules of warfare as recognized by civilized powers, assures the civilian population against enemy attack, as was the case with Paris after Hitler's invasion of France.

It has been difficult for Americans to realize the utter ruthlessness of such warfare as Japan has been carrying on against China for a number of years, and is now directing against the United States and Great Britain; but it is that kind of a war in which this country and its allies are now engaged and it is that kind of opposition that must be met and vanquished.

Wanton killing of civilians in Manila, and widespread destruction of churches, schools and public buildings by bombs dropped on the defenseless city, is in keeping with the dastardly attack made three weeks ago at Pearl Harbor while peace negotiations were ostensibly in progress, and gives an idea of how little can be expected in the way of decency, or regard for international law, by the yellow savages who infest the Far East and stand in the way of civilization's advance to eventual world peace.

Much that has already been lost, or that will yet be lost, as a result of appeasement and temporizing policies, must be regained—so that deadly weapons may be removed from the hands of people who have demonstrated that they cannot be safely trusted with them.

To do this it will be necessary to inflict some of the suffering and hardships upon the people of Japan that Nippon militarists are now carrying to other places, but this need go no further than required to assure final victory and should not involve unnecessary slaughter of civilians or destruction of non-military property. It seems unavoidable, however, that the war must be carried directly to Tokyo as quickly and as vigorously as possible.

More Waste Paper Needed

PEOPLE are now being asked to save waste paper, which can be re-worked into paper-board boxes needed to pack defense goods, and put to other useful purposes.

There is already a shortage of some of the raw materials that go into paper-making and this is likely to become worse as war requirements increase.

The Office of Price Administration, which asks that waste paper be saved and collected in each community, says there is an abundance of waste paper in the United States but that only about one-fourth of it is salvaged, the remainder being burned or otherwise disposed of.

While industries and business places usually have definite plans for collection of their waste paper, this does not apply to homes, in most of which there is a considerable accumulation of old newspapers, magazines, wrapping paper and corrugated boxes awaiting disposal.

A precinct, ward, or city-wide set-up for collection of waste paper on a specified day, or days, with proceeds contributed to a worthy cause, would appear to be a suitable activity for some local organization.

Washington Too Small for All

GOVERNMENTAL congestion is one of the most notable effects of this manifold war. Federal functions have grown so fast in a decade that Washington has gained 400,000 residents and now numbers more than a million in the metropolitan area.

It is not only uncomfortable and inefficient to keep on jamming millions of public employes and their families into that congested area, but it is also dangerous. There is not only danger of disease but of impeding the efficiency of the government itself.

Who would have imagined, in the time of President Jackson or Lincoln, or even so late as the time of William McKinley, that our government would ever become such a great, bulging, top-heavy institution?

It will be inconvenient in some ways to spread many branches of government and tens of thousands of federal workers around the country in distant cities, as is now being done. Yet there will be advantages, too. The exiled employes can live more comfortably and in many cases do their work more efficiently.

Archers Train for Defense

THE St. Louis Archery club has organized the "Archers' Anti-Parachute Invasion Squad" and will start at once to practice puncturing dummies dropped over its target range from airplanes.

Although it may seem somewhat foolish, explains one of the members, "it is exceedingly practical. The bow and arrow in the hands of an experienced archer is much more effective than a rifle in the hands of the ordinary citizen." Furthermore, an arrow is silent. The enemy would have a hard time locating the archer's place of concealment.

Archery groups all over the country may soon be turning their favorite recreation into defense training. There are more of them today than there would have been a decade or two ago because archery has become a popular pastime in recent years.

Thanksgiving To 'Stay Put' Hereafter

HOWEVER relatively unimportant it may seem at the moment, it is interesting to note that a law has now been passed "freezing" Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November, instead of leaving the date subject to presidential whim.

Such action by congress had not seemed necessary until two years ago when President Roosevelt broke away from precedent by setting Thanksgiving ahead to the third Thursday in November, to which a majority of states acceded but which balled up Thanksgiving observance all over the country.

An admitted mistake, the president has signed the bill which removes such power from future presidents.

Russian Successes Help British

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — There are sighs of relief here that the campaign in North Africa seems to be going as well as most of the experts had hoped. The underlying reason is that if it were not going so well there would be a storm of criticism because American production of planes and tanks had gotten under way so slowly.

It is admitted that only the unexpected success of the Russians in the last few weeks has saved the British in North Africa.

Had the Germans been able to dig in for the cold weather after their failure to crush the Russian armies and take Moscow and Sevastopol, they could have diverted such a tremendous flying force to North Africa that the British would have been stopped and even Egypt threatened.

Underlying all this is the failure of the United States to get big production of planes, tanks, etc. under way earlier. Had that been done the British would have had such ample material in North Africa that the mopping up of the German forces from Egypt to French held territory in North Africa would have been under way several weeks ago.

Obviously the British have had superiority, but not enough superiority to make the job a quick one. Everyone expected the Nazis to put up a better fight than did the Italians in the same territory last year, and they have. In fact they have done even better than the British anticipated. They would have been beaten more quickly if the British had been able to wait until more planes and more tanks were at their disposal.

But they could not wait. They had to follow a time table set not by the state of their supplies and armament, but by the weather. The Far Eastern situation may have had something to do with it, too.

On this point the belief here is that the British, backing up the United States in what amounted to an ultimatum to Japan, hoped some demonstration of the probabilty of an eventual defeat of the Axis powers might be sufficient to cause Japan to back down. They had no way of anticipating the Nazis debacle (at least what is hoped is really a debacle). So they struck as soon as the weather was right almost as much for the possible effect on Japan as for the direct advantages to be gained.

The same element of moral effect, of course, applied to Vichy. It is obvious that whenever the fortunes of war seemed to be turned toward German victory Vichy becomes more compliant to the Nazi will. By the same token evidence that the tide of battle is running the other way makes the unfree French a little more stubborn.

Unfortunately—or perhaps fortunately — the time table was against these hopes so far as the Japs were concerned. Unfortunately, because the earlier British successes, perhaps because they were not as sweeping as had been hoped, failed to deter the Japs. Perhaps fortunately because the suddenness and character of the Jap attacks, before a declaration of war, resulted in a solidarity of the American people—and incidentally of the other American republics—which nothing else conceivable would have brought about.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Health and Diet

Progress of Medical Science in 1941.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

LOOKING back over the year with a view to assessing progress in the things that make any difference to human beings, we find that so far as medicine is concerned the first thing that should be said is that there are very few places in the world where it has been possible in the last year to make any progress in medical science. In fact, there is only one spot in the world where it has been possible—the Western Hemisphere. Canada, the United States, Central America and South America have contributed their share. The rest is silent.

Laboratories Silent.

Nothing has come out of the great laboratories, clinics and hospitals of Germany. The once-active French brain is now dead. The clinics and laboratories of England are silent.

In South America a number of valuable researches have come from the psysiology laboratory of Professor B. A. Houssay at the University of Buenos Aires. These have to do mostly with the influence of the ductless glands on diabetes and other diseases of nutrition.

So important has this work been considered that a number of renowned scholars from such institutions as Johns Hopkins, Harvard and the University of California have been sent down there, both for instruction and to observe Professor Houssay's work.

Use of the Cyclotrone.

I should select the use of the cyclotrone in medical fields as the most important new work being done in the United States proper during the last year. This work is conducted by Dr. Ernest Lawrence at the University of California.

The value of the cyclotrone lies in two fields. The first is physiological. The second has to do with the treatment of cancer.

In physiology, the cyclotrone can attach a radiant substance to a certain group of cells or chemicals in the body, and, since it renders them radiant, actually see the chemical exchange at the sites of activity—how rapid the exchange is, etc.

Neutrons and Protons.

The radiant properties of the neutrons and protons which escape from the cyclotrone have great possibilities in the treatment of cancer. Already a hospital is being built on the campus of the University of California near the physics laboratory where carefully controlled clinical researches in this field can be carried out.

The rest of the year has been marked largely by the further applications of methods already introduced—the confirmation of the great value of the sulfonalamide chemicals in the treatment of all kinds of infections.

"Magic Bullet."

The dream of the "magic bullet," a chemical which will kill germs and do not harm to living human tissue, is partially realized in these magic compounds, and if one can trust the many reports that come in of new forms of these chemicals, there may be complete realization within the near future.

The health of the army and the civilian population during this time of national stress, which is at the highest peak that was ever obtained by any army or civilian population in the world under any circumstances, is an added attestation to the value of constant research in the field of medical science.

Need Long-Range Fighting Planes That Were Rejected By Air Corps

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Following the outbreak of war, the U. S. army and navy were in the unenviable position of sitting by, powerless to help the little band of marines gallantly defending Wake and Midway islands. Even more important, the army and navy also were unable to send any real reinforcements to the Philippines.

Reason for this was not only that the Pacific fleet was handicapped by the Pearl Harbor attack, but also because the army and navy lacked long-range pursuit planes. And the greatest need at Wake, Midway and the Philippines were planes able to ward off Jap bombers.

We have thousands of pursuit planes in the United States, but the only present way to get them across the Pacific, is to take off their wings, crate them and put them on slow cargo boats. Thus they would be subjected to the grave risk of Jap submarines.

And the amazing fact is that the army air corps three years ago was begged, urged and cajoled to build long-range pursuit planes able to fly to the islands of the Pacific.

The man who hammered at the air corps on this point until he was black and blue in the face was Major Alexander P. de Seversky, famous Russo-American plane designer, who wanted the army to double the fire power of pursuit planes and also double their flying range, at an additional cost of $1,800 per plane.

"Fantastic" In 1938.

HOWEVER, General "Hap" Arnold, chief of the air corps, vetoed the idea because, he said, "the tactical advantage is not worth the extra cost."

In January 1938 Seversky had flown 1,400 miles from New York to Havana in five hours and two minutes, breaking the record. It was after this that he went to Arnold, thinking the air corps chief might be impressed by the dramatic flight, if not by the blueprints.

But Arnold remained unimpressed. He merely said, "That doesn't prove a damn thing. Give Seversky a broomstick and he'll fly anywhere."

So Seversky tried another stunt. He gave the plane to a girl, Jacqueline Cochran, who was not acquainted with that type of plane. Yet, she flew it from Los Angeles to Cleveland, a distance of 2,000 miles, winning the Bendix trophy.

But the war department reaction was: "Seversky is seeking cheap publicity for his firm."

What he wanted, however, was to prove that it was necessary to have pursuit planes with a sufficient range to reach the outposts of the United States—Hawaii, Wake, Guam, the Philippines. This was stated formally, with what now proves to be prophetic foresight, in a letter Seversky wrote to the war department on June 25, 1938, in which he said:

"An important aspect of such additional range is the problem of transports of pursuit aviation in case of war. If our theories are correct, and air power becomes supreme, we cannot depend upon naval protection for our war planes being transported by boats. The navy will not be able to afford the necessary protection for our transports.

"Therefore, thought must be given to transporting airplanes to the various possessions of the United States by air. To do that, our airplanes must have an emergency range which would enable them, in time of war, to reach any possession of the United States under their own power."

Today our pursuit planes cannot even reach Hawaii under their own power.

Downed for Churchill.

SLIM" FREITAG, ace test pilot for Howard Aircraft, is convinced he was the first private citizen in Washington to know when Prime Minister Churchill would arrive in the capital.

"Slim" was putting a new Howard ship through its paces at a Washington airfield for a group of navy officials. It was an important test of a new type of plane in which the navy is greatly interested. He was flying low when suddenly he was urgently signalled to land. When he brought down his plane, he was told to get it off the field immediately.

"What the trouble?" he asked.

"The president's arriving," was the reply.

"I guessed then and there," claims "Slim," "that Churchill was in a plane nearby. Otherwise the president and his party wouldn't have been there. And I was right!"

Two Winston Churchills.

THERE are now two Winston Churchills in the United States. One is in Washington, and the other is in the little town of Cornish, N. H.

These two men have been confused for the last forty years. The name is exactly the same, and the two men are exact contemporaries.

One is an American, the novelist, author of "Richard Carvel," "The Inside of the Cup," and "The Crisis." This Winston Churchill leads a quiet, retired life, while the other, the visiting prime minister, lives a turbulent life, in the midst of the greatest crisis the world has ever known.

Future of CCC.

NOTHING got out about it, but the senate military affairs committee had a hot discussion over abolishing the Civilian Conservation corps.

The proposal was made by able young GOP Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, outspoken pre-war supporter of the president's foreign policy. Bridges contended that with the country at war, the CCC should be disbanded and the members mobilized for industrial jobs and special assignments, such as guarding public buildings and bridges.

"They are excellently qualified for this kind of duty," argued Bridges. "Also, this would mean a reduction in non-defense spending, about which there has been so much talk but nothing done. I have always considered the CCC one of the best programs undertaken by the New Deal, but with our entrance into the war it has outlived its purpose."

Senator H. H. Schwartz, staunch Wyoming New Dealer, vigorously objected, contending that the CCC provided excellent character-building training for unemployed youth and should be continued.

"Besides," he said, "what you propose would call for specialized training of CCC men. This would place an added burden on the army."

"Bosh!" exploded Bridges. "Those husky boys already are trained for the type of work I suggest. Many of them have learned vocational trades which equips them for defense industrial jobs and the others could be mobilized for guard duty with very little training."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in wartime:

The first days of the war saw record after record fall in the District of Columbia marriage license bureau. One day, 119 licenses were taken out, 31 more than ever before recorded. The one that attracted most attention was that of Baron Ulrich Frieherr von Gienanth to wed Austrian Baroness Karin von Veitinghoff-Riesch. A second secretary at the German embassy, the baron goes home to resume his command in Hitler's elite guard.

Maryland has started it around here and the District and other states, it is predicted, won't be far behind — using those 1941 automobile plates from now on until there no longer is any need to conserve metals. Instead of new plates, Maryland will issue little lock-over strips saying: 1942.

THE war has caused all sorts of little panics. The District civilian defense director, Col. Lemuel Bolles, had to jump into the middle of two the other day. Capitalites had started runs on black cloth for use in blackouts, and adhesive tape to interlace house and shop windows to prevent breakage in air raids. The director made appeals to stop buying, saying both products were needed badly "for defense." That must have been what Washingtonians thought, too. At last report, the runs still were going strong.

Listening attentively to an air raid warden outlining instructions at a meeting in a schoolhouse on Kalorama road the other night were Chief Justice of the United States and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone.

At the same air raid sessions was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who presided in the White House in another war when death from the sky on cities far behind the lines was only something the Zeppelin boys dream up to scare the folks at home.

COMMENT at the National Press club: "Well, times do change. I've only been here a few years but I can remember when some of the most sought-after invitations around here were to those bierabends at Kurt Sell's (German newspaperman) where every one sat around and drank beer and kummel and sang 'Schnitzelbank'; and to Kato's (Japanese correspondent) where you got real suki yaki."

Local police, Better Business bureau and defense officials are scampering all over town trying to catch the racketeers who are picking up dollars in a phoney drive for "District Defense Council funds." It's the old telephone racket. A smooth voice calls, makes a great high-pressure plea, gets a promise and sends around a collector. BBB officials say it probably is being worked all over the country.

For the first time since flood-lighting was introduced here, the Capitol dome, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and the White House spend their nights in darkness.

Over at OPM, housed in the new Social Security building, the cafeteria keeps open around the clock, serving a full-course dinner in the evening and a midnight supper from 12 to 2 a. m. Other defense agency cafeterias are making plans to follow suit as working shifts are staggered through the night.

OPM Chief William Knudsen holds his staff conference at 8 o'clock in the morning. A year and a half ago, Washington never stirred before 9 a. m.

The British agencies here and a good many of our own government departments are installing air raid alarms in their buildings—like the old fire bells that used to clang out for fire drills in the schools.

Twenty-one members of the house district committee, headed by Rep. Jennings Randolph, chairman, have been sworn in as members of the District's special wartime police force.

A Farmer's Diary

Along the Channel

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I raked the leaves from the course the spring has made I was interested in what I found. Here was broken glass, twigs blown from the woods, white bones of a bird that had fallen in and drowned. Beside the southern wall slimy algae veiled the stones and drab brown leaves.

I came upon several colored marbles, a rubber ball, a bird's nest made from the woven hair of a horse's tail, wild cherry seeds two rubber trucks, a tiny wooden boat and a little, worn old shoe.

As I pulled these last familiar items out, how well I remembered every one! In recollection, I watched young sticky hands at play along this shallow stream, saw two childish heads bent over a pile of mud, heard their shouts of laughter as one or the other splashed into the water.

Those were sunny summer days; now the brook is silent. Myriad forms of life that crawl and creep and fly are gone from the shallows. No bubbles rise, no ripples show, no ever-moving zone of insects hovers near the surface. Instead, the north wind howls southward from the slope, the woods roars, and snowflakes whirl in the blast. Frozen clods of earth stand near like tiny palisades. They splinter audibly when I step upon them.

But I was not satisfied with merely clearing the upper layer of leaves out of the channel. My rake strikes deeper into the murky bottom and as I draw it out upon the solid sandstone edge something laboredly moves, throws a burden of mud and leaves apart, and crawls forth inquiringly with two large eyes blinking. He stares at me as though I were an apparition. The sharp wind strikes his warty coat and with a shivering croak he slips back into the ooze from which he came. Then his horny head is completely covered and there is no motion.

Farther down, I found a hibernating leopard, the noisy musical hyla of early spring, and over against the western bank, deep within a crevice between two large stones I came upon a monstrous toad, covered with sand and fallen leaves. I pulled the earthy blanket from his back and touched him with my fingers, but he seemed immune to human overtures. I placed my hand beneath his cold moist belly. In a little while it roused him slightly, but his soft flabby flanks showed no sign of breathing.

Long snails were there; dark gray cocoons, oily-like, so that water did not penetrate; sow bugs beneath a piece of wood; two or three thimblefuls of bright dry seeds of wild buckwheat and fox tail grass sealed into a leafy cache by the dainty whitefoot mouse. The good earth tenderly folds the winter sleepers in its bosom.

IN AN impressive double ring wedding on Christmas day at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Beard, 01 West Dickson avenue, Miss Thelma Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Summers of Charleston, W. Va., become the bride of Kenneth Sutphin, son of Irving Sutphin of Charleston, W. Va. Rev. Samuel Parrett, pastor of the Mansfield Gospel Center, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends of the couple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal gown of white taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice, full skirt, sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves. Her finger tip veil, which was bordered with lace, was attached to a coronet of pleated organdie and white satin. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls and she carried a semi-colonial bouquet of white roses and pompons.

Miss Erma Summers, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an aqua taffeta formal gown fashioned similar to that of the bride and with short puffed sleeves. She carried a semi-colonial bouquet of pink roses and yellow and white pompons. Donna Ruth Billhart, cousin of the bride, preceded the wedding party down as flower girl. She wore a yellow taffeta floor length frock and carried a small basket of pastel colored flowers. Harold Schiska of Ft. Knox, Ky., served as best man.

During the service, which was performed before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and beauty baskets of mixed winter flowers, nuptial music was played by Charles Wolfgang, pianist. Some of his selections were "The Bells of St. Marys," "I Love You Truly," "Indian Love Call," "O Promise Me" and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Summers appeared at her daughter's wedding in a black street length frock with gold and black accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of red roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held for twenty guests. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with flowers and lighted tapers and centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Sutphin wore a gold tailored frock with brown accessories when the couple left for a wedding trip after the reception. Her shoulder corsage was of pink rose buds. The bride is a graduate of Elk high school in Charleston, W. Va., and the Charleston Business college. She is employed at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mr. Sutphin is a graduate of the Charleston high school and the West Virginia university. He is now a technical sergeant in the finance office at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Large Audience Enjoys Program And Holiday Tea

A very enthusiastic reception was given the program of piano selections presented by Frederick Griesinger, 21-year-old Cleveland artist, at the annual holiday tea of the Mansfield Music Study club in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Approximately 200 members and guests were in attendance.

Highlight of the program was Brahms' "Concerto In D Minor" played by Frederick with Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield at the second piano. Following this he presented as an encore, "Ballade In D. Major," by Brahms. As his final encore the talented youth played a modern composition by Toch, entitled "The Juggler."

The ballroom was beautifully decorated in keeping with the holiday season. Tea was served at a long table placed at one end of the ballroom, after the program. The Misses Frances Brinkerhoff and Tresa Pfeifer, members of the club's social committee, were in charge of arrangements.

Carr of Badaxe, Mich., on Dec. 27 at 10 a. m. before the altar of the Grace Episcopal church. Rev. Glenn Lewis officiated at the quiet ceremony which was performed before an altar decorated with two seven branch candelabra and white chrysanthemums.

Her only jewelry was a bracelet, gift of the bridegroom, and she wore a shoulder corsage of red roses and sweet peas. Miss Betty Bentley of Syracuse, N. Y., was Mrs. Carr's maid-of-honor. She was attired in a pink tailored frock with brown accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses and violets. Steven Fogle of Canton was the couple's best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served members of the immediate families and relatives at the home of the bride's mother. The couple is now on a short wedding trip.

Neighbor's Child Often A Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Often in this column I have praised the mother who through tact, patience and self-sacrifice tames the undisciplined child who lives near. She does the child more good than she knows. She also renders an unselfish service to the whole community. Besides, she and her children reap, in the long run, the largest benefits, perhaps.

If the badly brought-up child is going to remain where he lives and mingle with your children, it is much better that he should learn to be a desirable playmate, or even tolerable, than to be a pest to you and a bully to your children.

Then there is the neighbor child who, though he conduct himself fairly well in your home, is there nearly all the time. His presence often is a burden to you.

Visiting Child Problem.

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I work in a family where there are two children, ages five and seven. They have a playmate, age seven, who never seems to know when to go home. The children are fond of him and when I tell him to go home, they urge him to stay. He often stays during our mealtime which keeps the children from eating as they should); although we tell him outright to go home, he pays little attention. Sometimes when we have guests he stays right with us every minute. Would you tell me how, tactfully, to get rid of him when necessary without offending him or his parents. Please find an enclosed stamped self-addressed envelope."

I advised this young woman that the mother of the children she cares for might properly see the playmate's parents and write out with them a program indicating when this child should be sent home. It is too much to expect the child to take this responsibility. Such procedure requires, of course, considerable tact but is practical.

Solve Problem Early.

The longer such problems continue the harder they are to solve. The keen parent senses them early and works out an understanding with the neighbor about the time when the playmate will be welcome and when no playmates are desired in her home.

In any home there are times when the family should be alone, especially just before and during meals and early in the afternoon.

Unfortunately, there are some selfish mothers who encourage their young children to go to a neighbor's house to get rid of these children; and the more unselfish the imposing parent will become. Mothers need to learn early to look after their own welfare. On the other hand, every mother should constantly ask herself whether she is allowing her children to be a burden to another mother who is generous.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

WOULD YOU DO IT?

As a general proposition, if you were one of the defenders and you saw the ace of the suit in the dummy, would you lead up to that card if you held the guarded king? Of course not, unless you had some special reason, such as wishing to knock that entry out of dummy early, or creating a possible lower entry into your partner's hand, or perhaps giving your partner a ruff. When you are the declarer, then, and the fellow at your right leads up to such an ace in dummy, don't count on him to have the king unless you see the likelihood of some special reason for him to jeopardize its almost certain trick-taking value.

(Dealer. South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West led the club 7 to the J, South sent the heart 5 to the 10 and K, and East returned the spade 2. South should have told himself at once that East would not have done this if he held the K, consequently West had it, though East might have had the J. South should have put in the 10, which would have forced the K to be killed by the A, and the Q would then have been good.

South, however, thoughtlessly played his Q, the K and A covering and promoting East's J to top card. Realizing at once how silly he had been, South then led a second heart to East's A, and the spade J scored, holding him to barely 4-Hearts.

Had he not been flabbergasted upon noting his mistake, he still could have made an extra trick. After winning that third trick with the spade A, he should have tried a finesse of the diamond Q. East probably would cover, the A winning. The diamond 5 to the 10, club 2 to the A and diamond J for a discard of the spade 3, followed by a heart to the A would have made eleven tricks a certainty. But, having botched the hand, he was so upset he just couldn't "unbotch" it.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

NEITHER Mary nor I uttered a word until the door had closed after my father. Indeed, I do not think we moved a muscle until we were sure he was safely gone, so obsessed were we by his insistence upon my seeing Noel without delay.

But when we heard the closing of the elevator door outside in the hall, Mary dropped to her knees, crossed her hands in front of her waist, then gravely knocked with her forehead three times upon the floor.

Used to her vagaries, I made no comment, and she rose to her feet with a wry grin at me.

"There!" I've eliminated that from my system," she said. "I've been dying to do it ever since he began to issue those ultimatums. I was afraid I might flop down and make obeisance some day while he was talking, and you can imagine what would have happened to me."

"I prefer not to visualize anything remotely resembling that scene," I told her, smiling. Then I put a crisp question.

"Where shall I look for Noel?"

"Why, I imagine in the rooms we took for last night," she said. "All our personal belongings are over there, because we had turned our suite last night into a ball room. My blessed mother-in-law offered to oversee transforming it back this morning, so that when I finally awakened I would have nothing to do save transfer my special belongings again. Our temporary rooms almost adjoin the suite."

"Do you suppose Noel is awake?" I asked.

She arched her eyebrows at me. "That's on the lap of the well-known gods," she said. "He's a night owl anyway, same as muh, and he didn't go to bed until all hours this morning. Also, Allah alone knows how many sheep he counted before he finally went to sleep. So I haven't the slightest idea whether my ever-loving husband has opened his eyes yet.

"But there's one sure way of finding out—lift up that receiver and ask for Room 1428. That's the number of our temporary quarters."

"But," I expostulated, "I wouldn't like to wake him."

"Fat chance you have of doing the ladylike thing, with your father in the background," Mary reminded me. "Far be it from me to make suggestions to my senior s—and betters—but if I were in your place I'd up with that receiver and contact Noel, so when your father telephones back you'll be able to tell him that you already have made arrangements to talk to the lad."

"Your advice is eminently sound," I told her, "and I shall take it at once. But don't you think it would be a nice gesture if you called your husband, bade him an affectionate and solicitous good morning and told him that I was waiting to speak to him."

"You have something there," she admitted, "but—"

"Perhaps I'm mistaken," I said, "but you parted on good terms after your—"

"Knock-down and drag-out fight," she finished, with a little grimace. "Oh, yes, we were all turtle-doveish when he kissed me goodnight But—I don't want to talk to him until you've had it out with him about Stevie, and brought me back his reaction."

"You won't have to," I told her. "Don't give him a chance to say anything but 'Good morning' before you tell him that I am waiting to talk to him. Then I'll take the telephone and tie him up with an appointment."

"Good!" she commented. Then going directly to the telephone, she put in a call for Noel's room.

"Hello, darling," she said almost at once. "Did I wake you up? What? Don't be insulted! I wouldn't be awake now only Aunt Madge came over and dragged me out."

She covered the receiver and turning to me begged my pardon in pantomime for the tarradiddle. Then she returned to her colloquy.

"I'm glad you're up, nice boy," she said, "because Auntie Madge is here, and wants to come over there and talk to you immediately. In her present state of resolution she is perfectly capable of interviewing you while you cower in the bathtub. Just hold the wire a second. She's right here."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 30

A particularly intriguing and interesting day is the prognostication based on certain rather unusual planetary configurations. Best results may be looked for by departures from routine or customary programs and tactics. There is an element of the secretive, underhand and hidden, rather than the obvious and aboveboard, and much unexpected gain is shown in taking advantage of such irregularities. The higher and finer faculties or intuitions may be safe guides to progress and pleasure.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which all affairs may move into pleasant and profitable channels by the use of strategy, intrigue, hidden resources or the use of the finer faculties, inspiration or intuition. Novel, strange or secret alliances may be the nearest means of expressing singular creative urges, which should be sustained by order, system and detail worked out on practical lines. Dare to be original and brilliant. Much personal pleasure is foreshown.

A child born on this day will have much creative ability, with unusual skills in the fine arts or other forms of unusual genius. Its keen perceptions may lead it to great heights.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If South, after using the Blackwood slam convention, bids 7-No Trumps on this deal, why should West refrain from doubling, and why should he not lead the diamond suit?

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Very good. I'm being so magnanimous it hurts. . . . Is your father home? Perhaps you'd find it more comfortable if we joined the family."

"That's . . . sweet of you," she said and rose to her feet. "Andy and Amos are playing cards for a change. They'll be glad to see you. Aunt Cassie, too."

Dennison declined good-naturedly to be initiated further into the mysteries of three-handed pinochle and the other two men adjourned their game in favor of general conversation. Aunt Cassie brought in a dish of apples and then returned to her corner and her knitting. Carol noticed almost at once that she took no part whatever in the talk; also that Mrs. Steel's tight lipped mouth indicated that something had disturbed her usual equanimity. Her niece wondered uneasily whether Mr. Dennison could have anything to do with it, yet Aunt Cassie heretofore had seemed always to enjoy his company.

A little later the older woman wound up her ball of yarn, plunged her needles in it almost vindictively and remarked that she was going to bed. Chester got up as usual, but the gesture was rewarded with nothing more than an unsmiling "good night."

The next morning Aunt Cassie retained the same taciturn air and Carol was not greatly surprised when she followed her to her room after breakfast. Mrs Steel was about to unburden herself of information that caused her to close the door before she sat on the unmade bed.

"Carol."

"Yes, Auntie?"

"I've got to tell you something, child. I hate to, but I must. There's some nasty talk going around. Have you heard it?"

"About whom?" Carol dropped into a chair. Her heart was pounding uncomfortably

"Your father."

"Andy!" The brown eyes were incredulous. "Oh, you don't mean that, Auntie! It can't be so."

"Well, it is. Your father and my only brother. It's got to do with a woman, of course. I've been expecting something of the sort."

Only the tragic look in Cassandra Steel's dark eyes prevented Carol from laughing in sheer relief.

"Who is the lady, Auntie?"

"I didn't say anything about a lady! You might know who she'd be. It's that frowzy, bleached-haired Corwin woman. That's who 'Your father's running after her!'"

"Who says so?"

"Well, yesterday afternoon Elsie says there's something she thinks I should know. She didn't want to tell, but I made her . . . after she dropped a hint. She swears there's hardly a morning she doesn't see your father walking through that woman's gate as bold as brass. No wonder he hired that Greek man to redd shop! He's spending his time pollyfoxing around where he has no business to be. He can't do that."

"But, Auntie . . . why shouldn't they be friends?"

"There's reason a plenty. That woman must have heard that Elsie worked out. Anyway, she gets her to come over one morning and do some cleaning. Naturally Elsie gets around to asking her if she's a widow and Mrs. Corwin laughs in her face. 'I should say not!' Those were her very words. You see? She's got a husband somewhere!"

"Oh."

"I'll say as much. If Andre is my relative, I'm not going to have any such carryings on while he lives under my roof. Peter's been gone right long, but I owe him that much respect for the house and home he left me. I'm going to keep it decent."

"Oh," Carol said again.

"Here's the whole thing: Do you want to speak to him about it? Or will I have to? After all, you're his daughter. He's dragging you down the same as me."

"But that's silly!" Carol burst out. "Andy never would harm either one of us that way. You don't really know anything about Mrs. Corwin except what Elsie Smith has carried to you. She may be perfectly nice. I'm sure she is," Carol added stoutly. "I think you should find out more before you say anything. If you must."

"Somebody has to," Cassandra declared grimly. "Don't forget your father's got a little money now and he's right at the foolish age . . . with women, I mean. I'll wager that's what the creature is after. If nobody else cares, I do! I'll talk to him before he gets out of the house."

Carol's first impulse was to follow her aunt downstairs, then she reconsidered. It wouldn't be fair to Andy. She would wait.

Andre was reading his paper in the living room when his sister swept in to stand in front of him. He glanced up at her in mild interest.

"How now, Cassandra? You appear perturbed."

"I'm upset, Andre Delaine, and I won't mince matters. I hear you're taking up with that Corwin woman. And that she's got a husband. Has she?"

"As a matter of fact, she has. A perfectly good one, I believe."

"Then you should be ashamed! You might have some respect for your daughter if you don't for your sister. Or your own self."

"Possibly I don't get what you mean by 'taking up.' I've been to her home several times for a chat. I suppose dear Elsie came to you in full cry with her tongue hanging out. Did she go tantivy, tantivy?"

"I don't know what you mean, but it's nothing to joke about. I won't stand it. And you may as well know it."

"Hold everything, my dear. Mrs. Corwin is respectable and I have a few claims in the same direction. Oddly enough, Nettie used to be on the stage and—"

"I guess as much! An actress! I guess she wore tights like those cigaret card pictures you used to carry around when you were a child. I've found plenty of them in your pockets and put them in the stove."

"That clears up an ancient mystery." Andre's voice was calm but it carried an inflection that was unfamiliar and somehow disquieting. "I was about to remark that this woman, as you call her, was a friend of Hattie. A good friend . . . long ago. That makes a difference—to me."

"But it won't to other people." Mrs. Steel was not ready to retreat.

"And I'm not interested in their opinions. Didn't you ever hear of platonic companionship?"

"No. They don't call it that in Jericho and you know it. They'll drag me into a scandal next . . . as long as you're living under my roof."

"So?" A smile flickered on Andre's lips as he resumed his scanning of the headlines. "Well, if the going becomes too rough for you, Nettie's got some vacancies left. She likes to consult with me about her business affairs and it would be rather convenient."

"You'd never . . ."

"Why not? Your sewing circle is entitled to its money's worth."

SAN FRANCISCO LEARNS OF GAS, INCENDIARIES

Grim Note Enters Preparation For Defense of 2,000,000 In Golden Gate Area.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—A grim note of realism was injected into the Pacific coast's civilian defense preparations today as U. S. army officers began to teach San Francisco police and firemen the art of handling incendiary bombs and war gases.

In the belief that the Japs are sparring for a chance to bomb the golden gate area, with its 2,000,000 population, first instructions of this character were given in San Francisco and probably soon will be extended to other cities along the coast.

Eight officers of the army's chemical warfare service, just arrived by plane from Washington, this morning began a three-day course of instruction in the most pressing problems of civilian protection. The course was attended by 50 firemen, 25 policemen and 70 other city employes These men will in turn act as instructors for civilian volunteers.

They were being taught what to do in the event Jap planes swoop in over the U. S. mainland and drop incendiary bombs, how to cope with war gases and the best methods of organizing protective squads for industrial plants

Real bombs were to be used in the demonstrations. A quantity of the incendiaries had been rushed to San Francisco from Washington.

Another realistic development was a movement for the financing of easy-to-construct home air raid shelters. Blue prints of such shelters have been drawn up by the civilian defense council. The plans can be obtained, it was announced, at neighborhood fire and police stations. Banks have offered to make FHA loans for construction where necessary. Cost of the average shelter was estimated at $150.

The 10,000,000 residents along the Pacific coast, now fully aware of the possibility of a Japanese air attack, were being given hard but needed advice through the medium of the press. For example, San Francisco parents were told:

If an air raid should come while your children are at school, see to your safety. Your children are already provided for. Stay home, go to your refuge room; stay away from windows.

"Do not try to reach the school. You could accomplish no good. You could do a great deal of harm by such action.

"In an air raid, rule No. 1 is to stay off the street; get under cover On the street, there is the risk of falling shell fragments, racing cars, and fire apparatus. Stay indoors

"Do not try to telephone. The wires must be kept clear for the wardens, the police and the fire department."

Average Husband Will Understand How King Felt

LONDON —(INS)— When your wife keeps you waiting, you know how you feel. When a queen makes a king wait . . . well, even kings have their human side.

King George VI and his queen were due at 6:15 p. m., at an A. T. S. center in Berkshire.

Punctually to the minute the king drove up and got out, ready to greet the queen. But she failed to arrive. And then it started to rain—and how it rained.

The queen arrived exactly fifteen minutes afterwards her greeting was exactly the one the ordinary everyday wife would have come out with.

"Oh, dear," she remarked brightly, "am I late"

King George shot back his cuff and looked at his watch for the hundredth time. He spoke one word: "Yes."

NO MORE RED

BOSTON—(U P)—A fire truck described as the nation's longest now in answering alarms in Boston.

Arrival of the 125-foot aerial ladder truck also inaugurated use of a new color for fire apparatus—it was painted white, as all engines will be in the future.

CANCER GAINS

BUENOS AIRES—(U P)—Deaths from cancer have shown an alarming increase in Buenos Aires in recent years, the national health department reports The deaths from cancer percentage rose from 8.45 per cent of total deaths in 1926 to 14.75 per cent in 1940, statistics showed.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

LOCKPORT, N. Y.—(AP)—For 19 years a regular session of the Lockport federal court has been scheduled, but you would have to be quick to get in on the session. No cases are assigned and the session rarely lasts longer than one minute.

SET UP TIRE RATION BOARD AT BUCYRUS

J. C. Hull Appointed Chairman of New Defense Council Committee.

BUCYRUS—J. C. Hull has been named chairman of the Bucyrus tire rationing committee, Mayor William F. Whiteamire, chairman of the Bucyrus defense council announced today.

Committee members besides Hull, are Russell L. Miller, W. F. Mader, S. E. Auck, and J. W. Jones.

Plans for regulating the sale of tires were discussed at a meeting of the defense council Saturday when members also heard a report on civilian registration given by Dr. C. A. Lingenfelter, commanding officer of the Bucyrus unit of the Ohio state guard.

Plans for the collection of waste paper were outlined and a general request made of the public to refrain from burning their waste paper.

Little response is being shown by the public in civilian registration, Dr. Lingenfelter told the council. Registration blanks will be made available in factory offices and other locations and citizens are urged to sign up for emergency service. First aid instruction is to be made available to those signing up for the service.

Reading other people's mail:

That registered letter from the Cleveland Rams to John Hallabrin, Mansfield's outstanding football citizen of the moment, which came last Friday, was a contract for next season's National pro league's play even as we all surmised.

But it goes back to the Rams unsigned.

John came home yesterday afternoon from the North-South football wars at Montgomery, Ala., opened his mail, and immediately informed his family that the Rams' "letter, lady, came too late." Which was another old Civil war saying he borrowed from that battle of the North and South on Saturday.

Hallabrin already has joined the U. S. navy in Gene Tunney's physical education program which has Bob Feller and a few other well known athletes going through setting up exercises these brisk mornings.

And he's just waiting the word from Uncle Sam on where and when he's to take up his next stint of physical training. His presence at the News-Journal's football banquet next Monday night depends on when that word is received.

* * *

John got home yesterday in time for a family dinner at which he wasn't the guest of honor, believe it or not.

The honor was reserved for his brother, Freddy, looking trim and chipper in soldier uniform, and highly elated over a championship football season of his own.

The army team on which the former Mansfield Eagle bantamweight halfback plays, had just won the camp title.

So for miles around the Hallabrin clan gathered for their family dinner, and when they'd all assembled it was a question whether they'd have their dinner in Papa Mike's house or go across the street to Prospect park for a barbecue. There were that many of them.

They solved the problem by adjourning to the basement of Jake Auer's home on Lexington road where they took their dinner in relays.

* * *

And where I sat through all the relays eating mince and apple pie. This extra bit of rotundity which I'll carry to the registration office, now that they've lowered the draft age, I'll have to blame on the Hallabrins.

MANSFIELD MOOSE DEFEAT GALION LODGE

Mansfield Moose defeated Galion Moose by 73 pins yesterday in a bowling match at Colony alleys. Henry Michaels led the scoring with 595.

Another Mansfield Moose team turned in a 136-pin victory over Galion, but top honors went to a Galion kegler, Burger, who chalked up 612.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN CLUB UNKINKS JOINTS FOR GAME

MIAMI, Fla. — (INS) — Coach Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian football players, freshly arrived at the scene of their battle Jan. 1 with the Georgia Bulldogs in the Orange Bowl, unkinked their joints today with the most of emphasis on their famed aerial attack.

This is the sole statistical advantage they enjoyed over the Bulldogs in the past season. They gained 1,149 yards by passing during the 1941 season to 1,107 for Georgia.

PLANS DEFENSE OF CHAMPION'S CROWN

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla—(INS)—Big Bill Stark, of the Ponte Vadra Country club near Jacksonville, today planned to return to St. Augustine in February to defend his title in the 15th annual National Championship of Gold Club champions. This classic celebrating its crystal anniversary, will start Feb. 16, and the 36-hole final is scheduled for Feb. 21, at picturesque St. Augustine Links.

Dixie Fans Pick Duke As Winner

Coach Not So Optimistic as Blue Devil Backers.

By SID FEDER.

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—The governor of North Carolina may have told the governor of South Carolina the answer, and a couple of hundred thousand Dixie fans probably agree but to Coach Wallace Wade this rambler Rose Bowl game is all a mystery.

In fact, the slim soft-spoken sage of the south wouldn't feel at all hurt right this minute if a competent swami gave him the low-down on the collision of his Dukes and Oregon State's Beavers in Duke Stadium Thursday.

To Dixie partisans who figure Duke goes along with death, taxes and fried chicken as sure things, this stand of Coach Wallace is just so much of the stuff you slice thin and put between two pieces of bread, but Wade says the whole picture just doesn't add up.

* * *

"I don't see how it can be anything else than a mystery," he pointed out today as the vanguard of a sell-out crowd of 56,000 poured into Tobacco Town. "After all, whatever we know about Oregon State, and whatever they know about us is all second-hand information. We're both playing a guessing game."

Now this is not a crying towel act. Coach Wade just can't make a prediction, although you can plainly see that if his boys don't win this one, he's going to be mighty surprised.

"Yet," he went on, "The Pacific coast champion has beaten the eastern representative in the Rose Bowl three straight years now. And I can't see that there's so much difference this year that they're making us 1 to 3 favorites to change the East's luck."

Be that as it may, no one around this football-wacky belt shares Coach Wade's mystification, and those who saw this Duke team sweep this season point out that the chief reason the Blue Devils are a cinch is because of their ends. Of course there's Steve Lach carrying the mail, but the local experts talk about the Duke end—around plays that hit the jackpot—and the enemy defenses—in game after game this year.

Tops among these flying wings are Jim Smith, who carried ten times on end-around plays and averaged 14.3 yards per carry, and Bob Gantt, a six-foot-three 210-pound all Southern conference performer.

Champs Like Their Coach

Mississippi State Mentor Gets 5-Year Contract.

By MORTIMER KREEGER

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—(AP)—Mississippi State college has taken a five-year insurance policy on the excellence of its football team — by signing Coach Allyn McKeen to a new contract lasting through 1946.

The cheering had hardly died down after State's 6-0 victory over the traditional enemy from the University of Mississippi, giving the victors the first Southeastern conference championship a team from this state has ever had, when news of the contract became known.

The 37-year-old McKeen has brought the Maroons through three seasons with only three defeats. Square-jawed, squinting, a hard-boiled taskmaster on the practice field but an affable buddy in the dressing room, McKeen has brought the Maroons to football glory they had never experienced before.

Their first conference championship this year came after an unbeaten but once-tied 1940 season which culminated in a 14-7 Orange Bowl victory over Georgetown.

Duquesne, 16-0 victor this year, was the first team in three seasons to score a touchdown by rushing on the first-string line.

McKeen learned football under Major Bob Neyland at Tennessee, where he played end and halfback in 1925-6-7. For several years he tried to decide between law and football, but finally gave up a promising legal practice to coach Memphis State Teachers' college.

He took them from nowhere to an unbeaten season in 1938, then came to State and took over a squad that had been pushed around considerably the year before. He turned them into a winning club, made them a great one in 1940 and this season—after losing eight of his 1940 first string and eight good reserves — came up with a conference championship.

MISSOURI DRILLS

NEW ORLEANS —(INS)— With only three days for practice remaining, the Missouri Tigers were to drill today at Edgewater Park, Miss., and Fordham at Bay St. Louis, Miss., in preparation for their Sugar Bowl contest next Thursday.

LEAGUE GAMES

Basketball games in the Y. M. C. A. church league tomorrow night will find St. Luke's meeting Grace Episcopal at 7 o'clock. First Lutheran tangling with First Baptist at 7:45, and St. Paul's playing First Congregational at 8:30.

AKRON GOODYEAR CAGE TEAM SMEARS TOLEDO

TOLEDO — (INS) — The Akron Goodyear Wingfoots today held an easy 60-39 win over Toledo in a national basketball league game and the score would have been more lopsided but for the efforts of Chuck Chuckovits, who potted 23 points.

The eagle-eyed Toledo forward bulged the twine for seven field goals and made nine foul shots good. George Glamack with 14 points and Lee Huber with 13 paced the Akron attack.

Miami Coach Position Open

High School Mentor on Inside Track For Spot.

OXFORD—(AP)—The coach of an Ohio class B high school was conceded the best chance today of winning the head football coaching job at Miami university.

While there were other likely prospects, the folks in the know believed that the post would go to Wilbur Ewbank, who for the past 12 years has run the athletic show at Oxford McGuffey high school, turning out teams that never lost a season. His record is 71 games won, 21 lost and six tied.

* * *

Merlin Ditmer, Miami's athletic director, is in Detroit for the national coaches' meeting, and while there probably will talk to various aspirants for the berth vacated recently by Frank Wilton. Besides Ewbank, these included C. B. Schuchardt, head basketball coach and assistant football mentor at the University of Nevada, and Bob Whittaker, new coach at Bowling Green university.

* * *

A week ago it looked like Whittaker would get the job, but his delay in giving a definite answer may have hurt his chances considerably.

* * *

Ewbank, who coached at Van Wert two years before going to Oxford McGuffey, has much support within Miami's faculty, and parents of boys he has coached signed a petition urging his appointment and asserting he could do for Miami "what Paul Brown has done for Ohio State."

He is a native of Richmond, Ind., and was graduated from Miami.

$650 Prize Makes Him Year's Biggest Winner.

BEAUMONT, Tex.—(U.P.)—Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., took away today the $1,000 first prize and a bad cold for his efforts in the $5,000 Beaumont Open Golf tournament but Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who was able only to tie for second, got the lion's share of the hero's praise.

Hogan won $650 as his share of the prize money, which made him the biggest money winner among the professionals for 1941 and also gave him a total of 553 points to enable him to win for the second consecutive year the Vardon trophy—first time in the history of the P. G. A. that a golfer had won it twice in a row. Hogan's earnings for the year totaled $18,358.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., tied with Hogan for second.

Harbert blasted his way through the first 54 holes of the tournament and built such a lead he was able to coast home on the final 18 with an even par 71. In his first two rounds he shot a 70 and a 68 and topped both performances with his morning round yesterday when he came in with a 67.

* * *

A crowd of 3,000 saw the muffler-clad Harbert sink his final putt for an eight-under-par 276 on the 72 holes, seven strokes better than Hogan's and Runyan's 283's.

* * *

Hogan's total for the year was short of the all-time high of $19,600 earned by Sam Snead in 1938. Snead was second this year with winnings of $12,848 and also second in the Vardon standing with 444 points.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—There's been a lot of talk about whether a nation geared for war will have any time for sports . . . Maybe this yarn will help settle the argument: A couple of weeks ago Amby Gilligan, Whitehall, N. Y., high school coach, heard how two of his former pupils, Francis (Hackett) Conlon and Gerald (Barney) Ross, who are in the navy at Hawaii, had helped win their division baseball championship . . . Big news was that Ross had busted up the deciding game with a triple . . . After the Pearl Harbor bombing another letter came through from Ross. It said: "Well, the first battle is over and Hackett and I came out o. k. I was only scared for a second and then it was like some high school sport." . . . You can draw your own conclusions about what those kids learned on the playing fields of Whitehall.

MONDAY MATINEE

To settle any question about G-Man Atherton's salary for next year, Oregon State will take care of the Pacific Coast conference's usual Rose Bowl cut, which provides for the commissioners's salary and office expenses . . . Babe Ruth has reduced 20 pounds so he'll look like his old self for the movie about Lou Gehrig's life, which goes into production soon . . . Publicity for the Baer-Louis fight carries the slogan "Remember Pearl Harbor" . . . The fighters' idea probably will be "Remember Griffith Stadium."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

John Mooney, Salt Lake Telegram: "Japan's Premier Tojo, being something of a baseball follower as well as a military genius, will no doubt reach the opinion held by seven major league managers about the first of July, to-wit, There ain't nuthin' you can do to stop them Yanks."

HOT STOVE WARMUP

Although Don Barnes denies the story that the Browns asked for $100,000 from the American League, the "Sporting News" quotes a club official as saying the owners have poured in nearly a half million bucks in five years and feel that it's time for the league to do something . . . The Reds' statistical department has figured it out that just ten basehits at the right times would have given the Cincinnati the pennant instead of third place last season.

Buckeye Tankman Stars In Meet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.—(AP)—Two Big Ten swimmers—one of them Jerry Kershner of Ohio State—stood out brilliantly as Western Tank stars won a 62-30 victory in the annual East-West relays yesterday.

Kershner took the 400-meter free style event in 5:08.1, while Dobson Burton of Michigan swam the 50-meter free style in 27.8.

Sport Arenas Built for Army

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — Good news for service men is that five big sports arenas with a seating capacity of 4,000 each, will be ready for indoor recreation in the Ninth Corps Area during the winter months.

Two of the arenas—a $100,000 structure at Camp Roberts and a $74,741 structure at Camp Luis Obispo—have just recently been completed and are now providing facilities for basketball, boxing, wrestling, volley ball, tennis and badminton as well as stage shows.

* * *

Three identical structures well underway at Fort Ord, Camp Cooke, and Fort Lewis, Wash., are scheduled for completion early in January at a total cost of $235,000.

Each building is of frame construction, with an overall dimension of 217 feet by 131 feet, and contains 18,000 square feet of clear unencumbered playing floor space.

Dressing rooms, showers, lavatories, storage space, and a Post Exchange branch are located around the sides and in the rear of each arena.

Each is being equipped with three basketball courts. One, extending the length of the floor, will be standard size, 50 by 94 feet. The other two, extending crosswise, will be 50 by 84 feet. When the areas are used for volley ball, badminton and tennis, three games can be played at the same time, since facilities are interchangeable.

Surprise: Joe Louis Elected Best Fighter

Billy Conn and Freddie Cochran Take 2nd, 3rd In Ring Mag Ratings

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Surprising no one, Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis for the fourth time was named "fighter of the year" in the ring magazine's annual ratings released today.

However, the ranking of Billy Conn and Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane in second and third place, respectively, may cause comment.

Louis, by virtue of his seven title defenses during 1941, won the fighter-of-the-year award with a total of 98 votes from the 202 boxing experts who balloted in the United States, Canada and Latin America. Conn received 36 and Cochrane 23.

Others who received award votes were Ray Robinson, sensational young New York Negro welterweight, 12; Georgia Abrams, Washington, D. C., middleweight, 10; Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia Negro lightweight, 9; Bob Pastor, New York heavy, 8, and Tony Zale, middleweight king, 6.

Nat Fleischer, editor of the "The Ring," emphasized that sportsmanship and personal conduct outside the ring influenced the award voting, as well as fistic accomplishments during the year. The award voting was conducted simultaneously with the balloting on individual ratings in the eight divisions from flyweight to heavy.

* *

The divisional ratings placed only two champions—Louis and Chalky Wright, featherweight—in groups by themselves, above all opposition in their respective classes. Three other champs were voted No. 1 men in their divisions, but grouped with contenders. They were Gus Lesnevich, light heavy; Zale, middleweight, and Cochrane, welter.

However, in the lightweight division, Montgomery is designated top man—above Sammy Angott of Washington, Pa., who recently became undisputed champion by whipping Lew Jenkins. Similarly in the bantam section, Kui Kong Young of Hawaii is tabbed No. 1, and Manuel Ortiz of Los Angeles, No. 2, both ahead of Lou Salica, undisputed champ. The flyweight division has no titleholder but Jackie Paterson of Scotland is rated No. 1 for the second straight year.

Fleischer, in prefacing the ratings, bewailed the comparative low calibre of current pugilists, particularly in the heavyweight division. However, he reported increasing activity in the sport and a robust rise in the number of leather tossers.

It is Fleischer's personal belief that not more than six prominent current boxers could stand with the best men of other years. He includes neither Conn nor Cochrane in these six, all of whom are negroes—Louis, welterweights Robinson and Jackie Wilson, lightweight Montgomery, heavyweight Lem Franklin and featherweight Wright.

* * *

Red-headed Cochrane of Elizabeth, N. J., is credited with the year's biggest ring upset by wresting the 147-pound crown from Fritzie Zivic who was a 12-1 favorite. Conn turned in the year's outstanding — though unsuccessful — challenge because he was beating Louis when knocked out in the 13th round. Bob Pastor staged the year's best come-back, topped with two victories over Turkey Thompson and a triumph over Booker Beckwith. Lou Nova's showing against Louis was designated the biggest disappointment of the year. Melio Bettina, former light heavy ruler, was credited with the best climb in the heavy division.

Here are the divisional leaders in the Ring magazine's ratings for 1941:

Heavyweights — Joe Louis, Billy Conn, Lem Franklin, Bob Pastor, Buddy Baer, Melio Bettina, Abe Simon, Turkey Thompson, Lou Nova, Harry Bobo.

Light heavies—Gus Lesnevich, Booker Beckwith, Anton Christoforidis, Tami Mauriello, Mose Brown.

Middleweights — Tony Zale, Georgia Abrams, Billy Soose, Ken Overlin, Coley Welch.

Welterweights — Freddie Cochrane, Ray Robinson, Jackie Wilson of Los Angeles, Fritzie Zivic, Young Kid McCoy.

Lightweights — Bob Montgomery, Sammy Angott, Lew Jenkins, Dave Castilloux, Lenny Mancini.

Featherweights — Chalky Wright, Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh, Richie Lemons, Pedro Hernandez, Harry Jeffra.

Bantamweights — Kui Kong Young, Manuel Ortiz, Lou Salica, Rush Dalma, Tony Olivera.

THEATERS

Screen Funfest.

Fibber McGee tries to put his home town on the map in his role of Wistful Vista's leading citizen in "Look Who's Laughing," the Ohio attraction. His efforts to promote an airplane factory are opposed until Edgar Bergen comes along with Charlie McCarthy and takes a hand in the proceedings. McGee's radio partner, Molly, appears in the picture as does Lucille Ball and Neil Hamilton. "Steel Against the Sky," the second picture, deals with the lives and loves of the men who build the bridges that span American waterways. Lloyd Nolan is starred also Alexis Smith.

Army Comedy.

The Navy Blues Sextet furnishes the pulchritude in "You're In the Army Now," the Jimmy Durante-Phil Silvers rookie comedy, showing at the Madison. Matty Malneck and his orchestra are also in the picture that deals with the life of two vacuum cleaner salesmen after they inadvertently sign their name to recruiting papers. Jane Wyman and Regis Toomey supply the romantic interest in their respective roles of colonel's daughter and sweetheart. Donald McBride and George Meeker are in the cast.

Musical Western.

Football Picture.

Fonda Picture.

"The Return of Frank James," with Henry Fonda and Gene Tierney opens a two-day showing at the Majestic Tuesday. Gordon Jones and Marsha Hunt are featured in "Long Shot," the cofeature.

AMERICANS TOP LAWLESS RATIO OF ALIEN BORN

Chart of Census Bureau Cited In Widespread Appeal For Tolerance.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Foreign-born persons are much more law-abiding than native Americans and Americans should not alienate their loyalties during the national emergency by "suspecting them of plotting to blow up the local power plant," according to C. C. Van Vechten, chief of the institutional section of the federal bureau of census.

Writing in the Northwestern University's Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology, Van Vechten argued for "tolerance in a time of stress" by citing statistics to explode the "myth" of the foreign-born criminal.

"Natives are committed to prison at the rate of 11 per 10,000 population, while the foreign-born rate is only 5 per 10,000 population," Van Vechten said.

The disparity is even more impressive, he added, when it is remembered that the foreign-born are more likely to be apprehended for any crimes they commit.

Van Vechten's figures varied greatly according to age groups.

"Foreign-born men below 30 are considerably more criminally inclined than natives of the same age, while the foreign-born over 30 are much less criminal.

"Depression and restrictions have greatly curtailed immigration in the last two decades; the foreign-born population is an old population. It does not represent a particular hazard either from the point of view of the amount or the nature of its crime, and is rapidly passing beyond the age periods within which crime occurs."

According to Van Vechten's figures, the rates of crimes for personal gain are much higher for natives than for the foreign-born: 11 to 3 for robbery, 22 to 5 for burglary, 20 to 5 for larceny.

The rates for crimes of personal violence are about equal, although comprising a much larger proportion of the crimes of the foreign-born, he said.

"Victims of crimes of violence, at least where the offender is caught, are preponderantly of the same nationality, social and economic group as the offenders," Van Vechten said.

"People steal from strangers, but they murder their friends."

Note to Parents: Try These Ideas On Your Kiddies

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—Attention parents!

Teaching little Johnny or Mary to go to bed, pick up their toys or play with other children, is a cinch—if you know how.

That is the opinion of Miss Rena Wilson, psychology instructor at Newcomb college and director of its nursery.

Without being told, the 45 children in the nursery, who range in age from two to five years, soon learn to begin one activity after they finish another, Miss Wilson declared.

Used for observation by psychology students, the juvenile home was taken over by the college last year.

"Principal cause for failure of children to learn is that parents do too much for them," Miss Wilson asserted. "The child learns much faster if he has to do some things for himself."

RECORD MARCH

BRISBANE, Australia — (U.P.) — Soldiers of an anti-tank company have made an Australian record for a one-day march of 45 miles from Gatton to Redbain, across the Liverpool Ranges. The march took 15¾ hours, actual marching time being 12 hours.

They had marched 25 miles a day for three days before they set the record. They made the march in response to a 43½ mile march made in May by an anti-tank regiment near Newcastle, New South Wales.

UPWARD TREND CONTINUED BY SELECT STOCKS

Domestic Industry Cancels Steel Orders, Buying Pressure Removed.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market today resumed its selective recovery move on a moderate scale.

Accorded early support were American Telephone, Western Union, Kennecott, Woolworth, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont and Bethlehem Steel.

General Motors and Chrysler failed to make headway. Reynolds Tobacco "B" and American Tobacco "B" lost most of their Saturday's rally when Price Administrator Henderson indicated disapproval of one manufacturer's boost in cigaret rates.

Market analysts studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that cancellation of steel orders by consumers whose production has been curtailed continues and "removes considerable tonnage from mill books."

Pressure to buy on the part of civilian users of the metal, it was added, has all but disappeared, leaving the way clear for armament output.

license with that on an automobile in O'Leary's garage but found that his auto was not damaged and carried a different license plate.

Investigation revealed that O'Leary had sold the car damaged in the crash and had purchased another second-hand one for which he had obtained new plates.

O'Leary was fined $50 and costs and had his operator's license revoked for a year this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Acting Judge H. H. Schettler suspended $30 of the fine, pending O'Leary's payment of damages to Nollert's auto.

Boals said that the drive to arrest other hit-skippers would be made despite the failure of motorists to file charges against them. The commissioner said that few motorists filed charges because their losses were covered by insurance but that the police would continue their investigations from a "purely legal" viewpoint "without worrying whether the owners received payment."

terday and compelled at least part of the enemy to pull off to the east, the British command announced today.

The Axis forces fleeing to the west lost six tanks, a communique said.

The RAF heavily attacked the Axis troops isolated in Bardia and kept up raids on enemy motor transports on the roads westward from Agedabia, "damaging or destroying a considerable number of vehicles."

The RAF reported that "about 15 hulks of ships lie in the inner and outer harbors" of Bengasi, the Italian port and base which fell to the onrushing British last week. "The whole harbor front is a battered and crumbling ruin" as a result of the RAF's raids preceding the city's fall, said the announcement.

Reports Deep Gloom In Occupied Europe

ISTANBUL—(AP)—George H. Earle III, who has been United States minister to Bulgaria, arrived today from Sofia and described a deepening gloom settling upon Nazi-dominated Europe.

He said Rumanian and Hungarian hospitals were choked with German wounded from eastern front hospital trains and asserted the German people and soldiers alike were sickened by Adolf Hitler's assumption of personal command of the German army.

"German fortunes definitely are declining," he said, but added that "the death throes may be unprecedentedly violent."

Earle arrived with his entire legation staff after being bustled out of Sofia after Bulgaria's declaration of war upon the United States. Members of his staff said they thought the Bulgars had gotten wind of a Nazi plot against them to create an incident.

All non-diplomatic American residents in Bulgaria—about 20—were compelled by Nazi-controlled Bulgarian police to remain behind, the staff members said, presumably to serve as hostages for Germans living in the United States.

Californian Has Rare Collection Of Silver Spoons

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Harry H. Fink of San Diego has a spoon collection with which he said he could trace the civilization of man through the ages, but from this the public is barred.

"I wasn't born with a silver spoon in my mouth, but I have been collecting them for 40 years and now have 3,860 of them," Fink explained, but said he has previously refused to exhibit them publicly because of the value. He keeps them in vaults.

The collection, one of the world's largest, includes a spoon from Egypt that dates back 4,000 years. Its beautiful silver filigree is set with jade.

Made of carved horn, ebony, shell, rare wood and almost every metal, the spoons range in size from one-half inch to 2½ feet long.

Almost every country in the universe is represented in the collection which was gathered principally during three round-the-world trips.

pulled several envelopes out on the floor and emptied the money from them. He then gave the money to the other man, who ran through the boiler room of the hotel out into Temple court.

Wolfe said the burglar told him to lie flat behind the counter for five minutes without moving and then left by the front door.

Police said that one of the men was described as being 40 years old, about five feet, nine inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds and wearing a shabby grey hat and overcoat. The other, according to the description given by Wolfe, was about 50 years old, five feet, five inches tall, weighed 200 pounds and wore a brown hat and blue overcoat.

Wolfe was unable to describe a third man who he believed stayed in the auto during the burglary and could only say that the sedan was "dark-colored."
